Rape a M st Hespectable Young Lady. On Sunday last a most diabolical outrage was attempted by a negro upon the person of a young lady living in Henrico county about ten miles from Richmond. The young lady was proceeding on foot to attend religious services at a church not more han a mile from her father's residence, when she was accosted by a negro who carsome insulting words of base proposal he taxed. made an attempt to violate her person. -The young lady was of robust frame, and made much greater resistance than was anheipated. Finding himself unable to effect his purpose by muscular effort, the black scoundrel threatened to shoot her, and did strike her over the head with the butt of his gun, inflicting a severe wound across her forehead, and rendering her for a time it is probable, however, that he was frightened off, as his hellish purpose was not consummated. On regaining her conciousness the young lady found that the negro had made good his escape. She at once made her way home, and the news was soon communicated to some members of nor, transmitting a communication from the congregation of the church.

Of course there was a great excitement, and a party of twenty-five young men immediately armed themselves and started in arch of the perpetrator of the outrage. and several suspicious parties were arrest- seat. i, but being confronted with the lady she failed to identify either of them as the person who made the assault. A WATCH IN THE NIGHT.

THEW P. TAYLOR and Miss ROBBIE NUTT, nineteen stanzas, and is a survey of the present political condition of Christendom. We quote the > Watchman, what of the night? Storm and thunder and rain. Lights that waver and wane, Leaving the watch fires unlit. Only the balefires are bright, And the flash of the lamps now and then. From a palace whose spoilers sit Trampling the children of men.

Prophet, what of the night? I stand by the verge of the sea, Banished, uncomforted, free, Hearing the noise of the waves. And sudden flashes that smite Some man's tyrannous head, Thundering, heard among graves That hide the hosts of the dead.

Mourners, what of the night? All night through without sleep We weep, and we weep, and we weep. Who shall give us our sons? Beaks of raven and kite, Mouths of wolf and of hound, Give us them back whom the guns Shot for you dead on the ground.

Captives, what of the night? It rains outside, overhead, Always, a rain that is red. And our faces are soiled with the rain. Here, in the season's despite, Day time and night time are one, 'Till the curse of the king's and the chain Break, and their toils be undone.

Statesman, what of the night? The night will last me my time, The gold on a crown or a crime Looks well enough yet by the lamps Have we not fingers to write-Lips to swear at a need? Then, when danger decamps, Bury the word with the deed.

Christian, what of the night? I cannot tell : I am blind. I halt and barken behind. If happily the hours will go back, And return to the dear dead light, To the watch-fires and stars that of old Shone where the sky now is black, Glowed where the earth now is cold.

Night is for slumber and elecp, Warm, no season to weep : Let me alone till the day, Sleep would I still if I might, Who have slept for two hundred years. Once I had honor, they say; But slumber is sweeter than tears.

Europe, what of the night? Ask of Heaven, and the sea, And my babes on the bosom of me, Nations of mine, but ungrown There is one who shall surely requite All that endure or that err ; She can answer alone. Ask not of me, but of her.

Liberty, what of the night? I feel not the red rain's fall-Hear not the tempest at all, Nor thunder in Heaven any more. All the distance is white With the soundl as feet of the gun Night, with the woes that it wore : Night is over and done.
